About Ana

Why Entrepreneurship?

Previously, I thought it was jumping blind into the unknown, making something from nothing. I now know it as compounding your capabilities and bringing your vision into reality: a deliberate reshaping of destiny for the greater good.

Fun Fact

As the eldest of thirteen siblings and a first-generation American college student, I aim to embrace the harmonious chaos of life; my solace is in the pages of books and I draw inspiration from the tranquility of nature—an eternal dreamer by essence and calling.

Support Needed

The barriers for entry in the medical field are daunting, especially with emerging technology, and I need all the help I can get with patent creation, medical trials, and customer adoption.
